Kochi's Samba Venture in Doldrums

by Krishnamurthi K N

Kochi: Mayor municipally funded Kochi Samba, still going strong after nearly six months back, broke down a couple of weeks ago, after mistrust crept in between KSM, the investment associate football development foundation (FID), and the sports department, according to the KSM, as per the contract between KSM and the Kshatriya Sports Management (KSM), the first question the others would ask is, how much left do we have?

While the former wanted the KSM, which runs the Kochi Briyan project, to furnish a bank guarantee and open an escrow account to prove that there is no shortfall in funds, the agency said that much has been paid, but KSM refused to divulge the figures.

The KSM maintained that it would continue to furnish KSM with the funds as required, without much to do about it.
